THE SEAPORTS AND SAILING ROUTES OF PAUL

Linford and Janet Stutzman

Background: Since a sabbatical in 2004, my wife and I continue to explore the Mediterranean of the Acts story aboard our sailboat SailingActs. For the past number of years we have had the privilege of sharing with others our sea-based insights of the dynamic Christian movement through the seaports and sailing routes of the Mediterranean. We are pleased that Tutku Educational Travel, the leading experts in the region, is offering this unique travel option.

Description: This journey which begins in Istanbul and ends in Athens, includes world famous archeological sites such as Ephesus and Corinth, and features an entire week enjoying excellent Turkish cuisine, swimming, sailing and relaxing aboard a beautiful, well-appointed traditional wooden Turkish gulet. This route along the spectacular coast of southern Turkey intersects with and follows parts of Paul's four sea voyages recorded in Acts. The voyage includes visits to several remote and relatively unknown archeological sites of biblical and historical significance, scenic ancient harbors, and quiet anchorages along the way.

Brief Itinerary: Antalya, Perge, Finike, Myra, Patara, Knidos, Bodrum, Didyma, Melitus, Ephesus, Samos (Greek island), Corinth, Athens and other places of historical and cultural interest not mentioned in Acts.
